Codru Wine Producing Region

The Codru wine-producing region is the largest protected area on the wine map of our country, the vineyard area covering 60 thousand ha. This area is located on the Codri Plateau, which occupies 40% of the total area of the region, the North Moldavian Plain, the Middle Dniester Terraces and Rezina Hills, between the two cross-border rivers Dniester and Prut.

Vineyards in the Codru wine-producing region are located at different altitudes, ranging from 100 to 400 meters, and the slopes have a predominantly southern, southwest and southeast orientation.

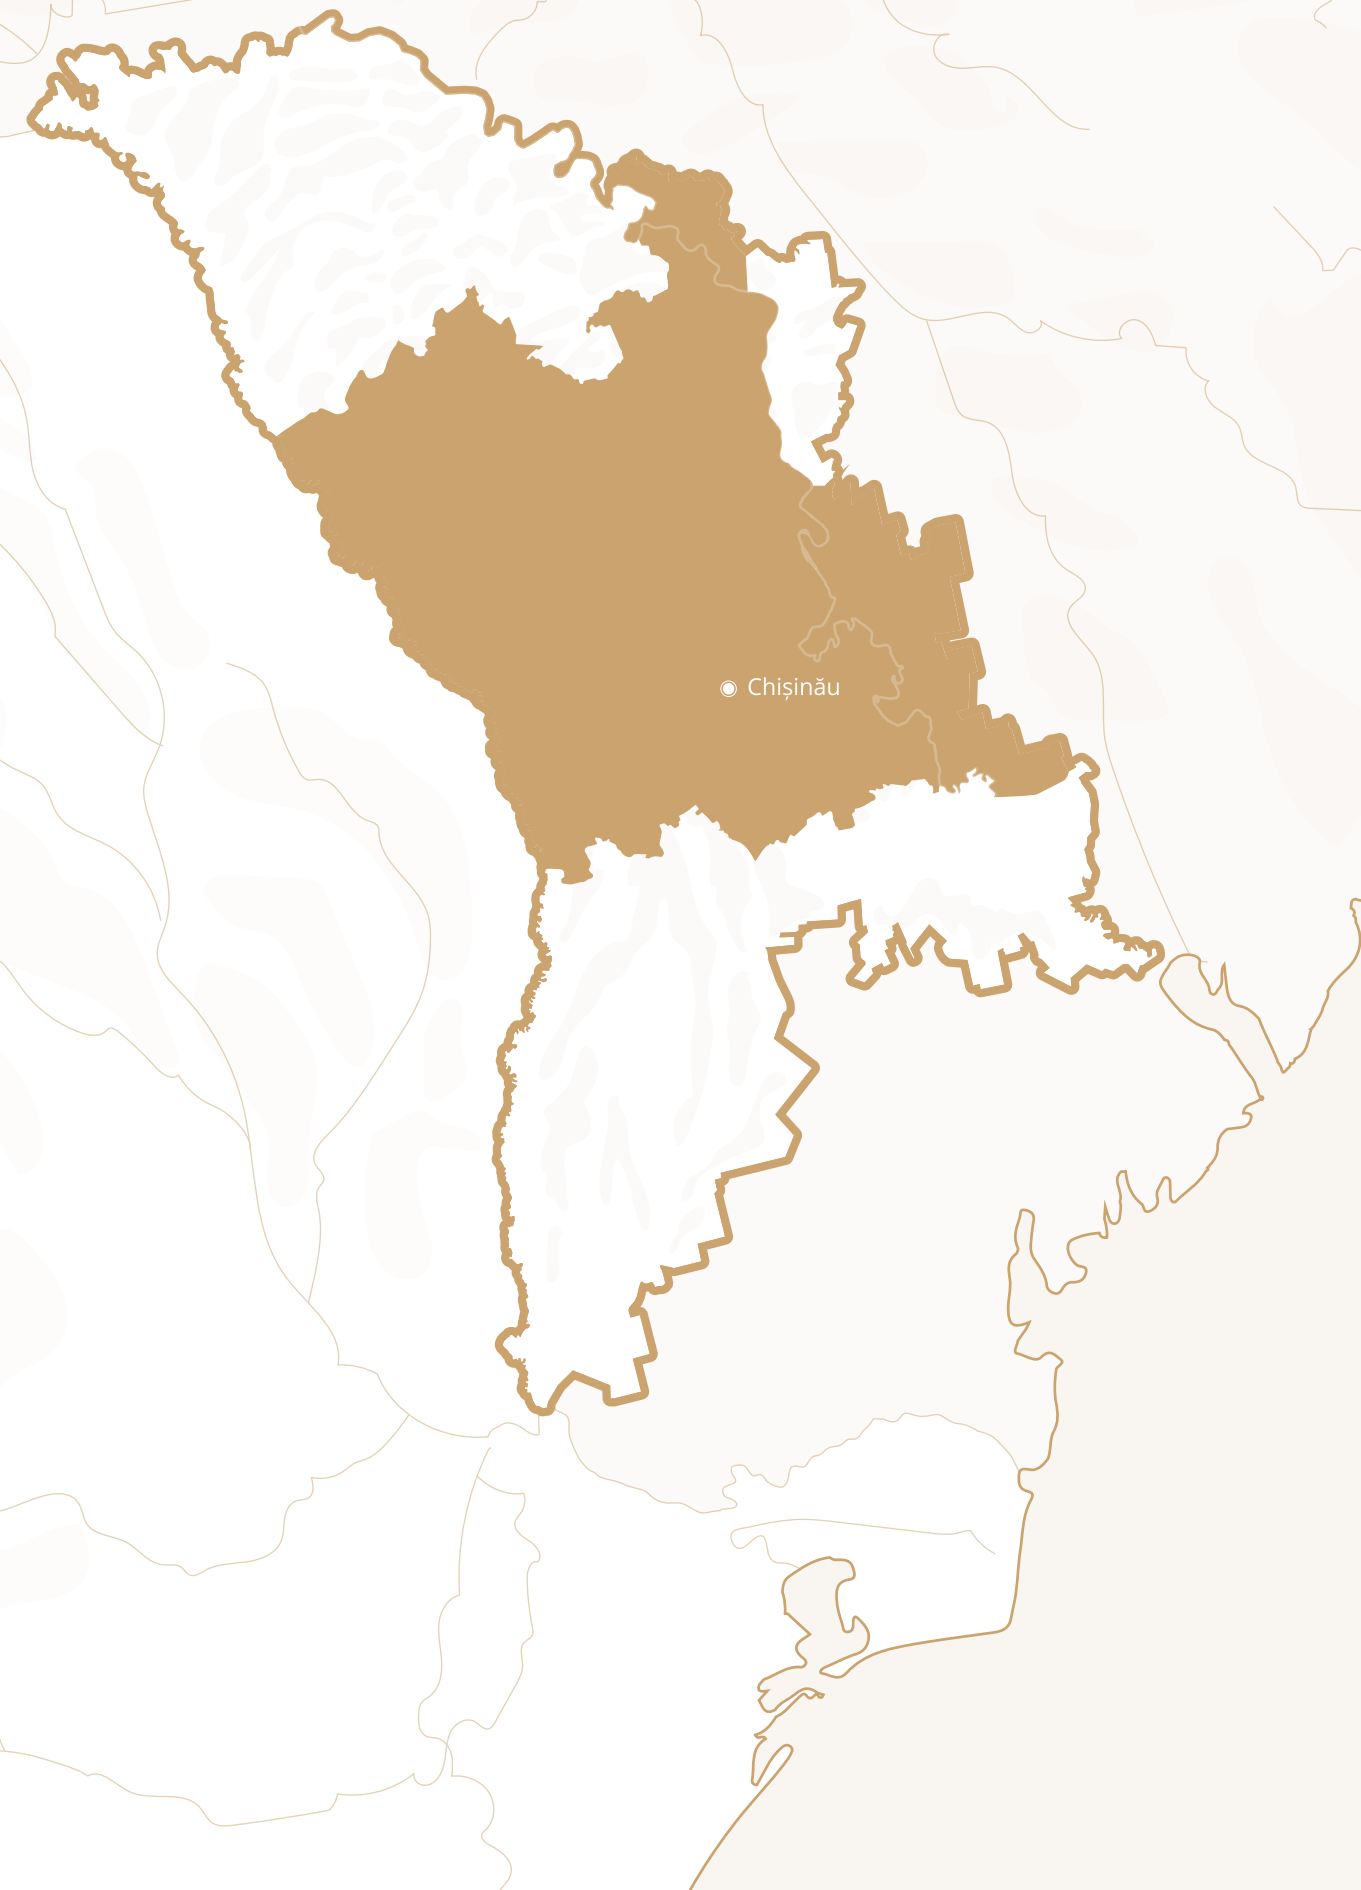

The climate in this region is temperate-continental, winter is mild and short, while summer is warm and long with relatively small amounts of atmospheric precipitation (average annual precipitation: 500-600 mm, annual average temperature: 9.0-9.5° C).

The soil composition and the specific climate of the Codru wine-producing region have created excellent conditions for the production of high-quality aromatic white wines as well as exceptional sparkling wines.

Two thirds of the region surface is cultivated with varieties of white grape vines, of which Chardonnay, Riesling de Rhin, Sauvignon Blanc, Muscat Ottonel and Feteasca Albă prevail.

White wines produced in the Codru wine-producing region are characterized by freshness, well-pronounced aromatic complex, accentuated minerality, pronounced and fruity floral bouquet. All this mixes in a savory taste that expresses the freshness of summer fruits.

Depending on the varieties used for blending, the Codru PGI sparkling wines are characterized by long perlage and abundant foaming, their bouquet is fine and floral, and the taste is rich and ample.

Asconi Winery was founded in 1994 and it is a family business up to the present day. Our goal is to make good wine using all the modern technologies that are at our disposal and to keep up the traditions of previous generations. We also want to share all our accomplishments with all our visitors, either locals or foreigners.

Ștefan Vodă Wine Producing Region

The vineyards of the Ștefan Vodă wine-producing region occupy an area of 10,000 hectares and include the following natural areas: the Botna River meadow, the Dniester Terraces and the South Moldavian Plain. The Dniester, a cross-border river, and also such internal rivers as the Botna and Cogâlnic flow on the territory of this region.

The region is characterized by moderate altitudes, the highest point is 290 m above sea level. The northwestern and northeastern orientation of the slopes is a peculiarity specific to the Ștefan Vodă region, which provides its particular terroir.

The generous sun, limited quantity of precipitation, the Black Sea breeze and the Dniester waters create favorable conditions for growing grape (average annual precipitation: 450-550 mm, average air temperature: 9.5-10°C).

The quality of the wines produced in this region is conditioned by the soil, which is mostly ordinary and calcareous chernozems.

The vineyards cultivated in the region are mainly of black varieties, such as Rară Neagră, Saperavi, Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, and Malbec. Among the white grape varieties are Chardonnay, Sauvignon, Pinot Gris, Muscat Ottonel and Gewürztraminer.

The red wines produced in the Ștefan Vodă wine region are distinguished by their intense color – from pomegranate to cherry, which dissolves in light shades of brick in the case of barrel-aged wines. The bouquet of these wines is dominated by hints of red fruits and berries – sour cherries, black currants, raspberries, dried plums, spices – all creating a perfect balance with a rounded, fruity, velvety taste with noble oak hints.

White wines, distinguished by a bouquet full of white fruit flavors, harmoniously blended with flavors of black currant, field flowers and violins, a deep and velvety taste are also highly appreciated in this region.

The Gogu Winery is a small family business established in Căușeni and it represents a commitment of a young generation of winemakers to produce quality wines. Strong roots determine the production of high-quality grapes worthy of becoming a selected wine. The wine creator always finds the balance between traditions, ancestors' experience and new technologies to get an unbeatable product. The Ganea Vineyards Winery was founded in 1865 and was named after its founder August Bauer, who came from Germany. August and his sons moved to Bessarabia and invested all their family capital in grape growing and wine production. After the First World War, the family emigrated and the winery had many owners, and after the collapse of the Soviet Union, it was completely abandoned.

In 2015, the Ganea family decided to restore and develop the family wine traditions. Thus, the winery has been reborn. Currently, Ganea Vineyards is known worldwide due to the Land of Basarabia wine brand acknowledged by the Michelin Guide.

Valul lui Traian Wine Producing Region

The Valul lui Traian wine-producing region, which occupies about 43,000 hectares, is located between the “bottom” and “top” ramifications of the largest and oldest historical monument in the Republic of Moldova – Trajan’s Wall (Valul lui Traian).

Valul lui Traian is a region characterized by fragmentation of the relief with hills, deep valleys and slopes with varying degrees of inclination. The Prut River and the inner rivers Ialpug and Cahul with their tributaries flow on the region territory. The Valul lui Traian wine-producing region comprises three sub-regions with specific terroir: the Budjak Plain, the Tigheci Hills and the Prut Terraces.

The vineyards are located at altitudes from 5 to 300 m, with the predominance of slopes with the eastern, western and southwest exposition.

The climate of the Valul lui Traian wine-producing region is temperate-continental and offers a lot of sunshine balanced by the Black Sea breeze and the shade of Tigheci Codrii (average annual precipitation: 450-550 mm, annual average temperature: 9.5-10° C).

The quality of wines is conditioned by the exposure of reddish tertiary deposits, rich in microelements. This is particularly noticeable in the micro-zones of Ciumai, Vulcănești and Etulia.

The region is more favorable for the cultivation of red grape varieties such as Feteasca Neagră, Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot and Saperavi, which are planted on about 60% of its area. Red wines produced in this region have a more intense color than in other areas, fruitful flavors and a rich taste due to their high extractivity.

This has always been the region of production of exceptional liqueur wines, bringing fame to certain micro-zones such as Trifești and Ciumai.

On the National Day of Wine, on 5 October 2019, the Bostavan Winery was awarded with the Grand Prize for outstanding achievements in the production of high-quality wines, perpetuation of traditions and excellent quality of local wines, promotion of Moldova's image as a wine country on the international arena.

Founded in 2002, the Bostavan Winery has over 700 hectares of its own vineyards in the micro-zones of Onești and Etulia and Moscovci. In 2015, Bostavan launched a special collection of wines under the DOR brand, which were soon appreciated at the most prestigious wine competitions worldwide.

In 2017, Bostavan launched the DOR sparkling wines and the DOR Reserve wine series, which in the same year managed to receive medals at the most important competitions in the world.

In total, during the years 2013-2019, Bostavan wines and sparkling wines were awarded with over 90 gold, silver and bronze medals at world competitions such as Effervescent du Monde, Mundus Vini, Decanter World Wine Awards, Concours Mondial de Bruxelles, Asia Wine Trophy, and the number of awards increases year by year.

It all started a few years ago, in 1997, when a unique place in the south of Moldova, located at the same latitude as Bordeaux, drew attention of French winemakers of the Ron Amivin Company. Mild climate and unique clay soil rich in minerals and trace elements offer ideal conditions for the development of agriculture, viticulture and winemaking. Therefore, in the place of a winery founded in 1958, French winemakers established here a Moldovan-French company Kazayak Vin.

Art is an adventure into an unknown world, which can only be explored by those who dare to take risks. We can say that growing grapes and making wine is an art, and talent, ambition, professionalism are the strong points of its development.

Podgoria Vin is a winemaking company from the South of Moldova, which has ventured into discovering and promoting this art. The mission of the company: "We respect the past, but we do not live in its shadow. We believe in progress. We believe in innovation. But above all, we believe in authenticity."

We consider that the key to our success lies in the fidelity to the traditions of cultivation inherited from our ancestors, combined with the most modern grape processing technologies, a fact that our wines speak about.

The basic priority of our company is to produce high-quality wines, while terroir, vineyard architecture and love for wines are our basic pillars.

We dare to say that we are proud to have over 400 hectares of vineyards, in the south of Moldova, the Valul lui Traian region. The varieties we grow include European varieties such as Chardonnay, Sauvignon, Riesling, Kerner, Aligote, Cabernet-Sauvignon, Merlot, and traditional local varieties such as Feteasca Albă, Feteasca Regală, Viorica, Feteasca Neagră, Rara Neagră.
